問 3

My father is an English teacher. His friend Ms. Taylor was going to leave Japan soon. So my father and mother wanted to have lunch with her at our house. My father said to me, "Can we have lunch together?" I couldn't say, "Sure" because I couldn't speak English well. I thought talking with people in English was difficult for me. My father said, "I can help you. And you can say, 'Can you say that again?' to Ms. Taylor when her English is too difficult. It is important to say something when you have a problem." He also showed me how to ask questions. I learned English a lot from my father. However, I didn't think my English got better. When I saw Ms. Taylor on the day of the lunch, she asked me many questions in easy English. So I could enjoy talking with her. I could tell her where to buy popular Japanese goods for her family in her country. I was happy to talk with her. Now, speaking English is a lot of fun for me. I want to improve my English more.
